MONTCLAIR MUSEUM ELMAN AT CARNEGIE HALL WAGNER'S COMEDY OF ART IS OPENED

Big Throng Present at Reception and Dedication Exercises.

250 PAINTINGS ON EXHIBITION

Mrs. Henry Lang Gave $60,000 for Building-W. T. Evans Presented Collection.

(From The Tribune Correspondent.)
Montclair, N. J., Jan. 15.—The Montclair Art Museum was formally opened toed by about eight hundred members of the Montclair Art Association, artists who contributed their works to the first loan exhibition of the museum and invited guests. The new building is at South Mountain and Bloomfield avenues, was erected through the generosity of Mrs. Henry Lang, of Montelair, who SACHA GUITRY IN PLAY contributed $50,000 for that purpose.

The museum contains a collection of fifty-four paintings by American artists. presented to the association by William T. Evens, its president; six water cold paintings, given by Mrs. Mary E. Wilde: ulpture, presented by Mr. Evans and Mrs. Lang: a collection of Indian art objects, given by Mrs. Lang; a collection of art objects, given by Mrs. Wilde, and a Jacobean chair, given by the Montelair Daughters of the American Revolution. is made from timber of the British frigate Augusta, sunk by the American forces in the Delaware, and is a replica of the chair presented to the White House by the New Jersey Daughters of the American Revolution in President Taft's administration.

Besides these works of art, which are o be on permanent exhibition, there are more than two hundred paintings that have been loaned by professional artists of Montclair and vicinity. The loan exhibition will continue two weeks. Evans has also presented to the art as-"The Sun Vow." by Hermon Atkins MacNeil, which surmounts a bowlder on the lawn at the the sculpture is the figure. haracter, speeches being made by Mr Evans, the president, and the Rev. Henry E. Jackson, president of the Montelair livic Association, where the museum project had its inception, Mr. Jackson referred to the ambition of the associaion to acquire land adjacent to the new museum and to continue the building operations until the structure conforms to the design of the architects.

The movement to provide Montelair with an art museum began in 1969, when William T. Evans, president of the Municipal Art Commission, wrote a letter to town a collection of thirty paintings by American artists of established reputation. This was to serve as a nucleus for an art gallery, provided arrangements
